January is Lawyering Skills Month at Cardozo!

Please Join Us for a Lawyering Skills Month Information Session On Wednesday, September 27, 2017, at Noon

in the Jacob Burns Moot Court Room

Cardozo will be offering a wide variety of lawyering skills classes during the January break. These intensive courses feature simulation and role-playing exercises set in a wide variety of practice areas and contexts. Instructors provide individual training and feedback. We invite students to attend a presentation on Wednesday, September 27th at Noon in the Moot Court Room to learn about these offerings, which include the Intensive Trial Advocacy Program (ITAP), Negotiation Theories and Skills, the Intensive Transactional Lawyering Program (ITRANS), Representation in Mediation (IMAP), Introduction to Financial Statements (I-FinS) and more!

Various January-term faculty members and administrators will be on hand to explain the different programs and answer any questions you may have. If you cannot attend the information session, the course and registration information will be available for download from the Registrar's page of the Cardozo website following the meeting. We hope to see you all there!

Tax Law Society Career Interest Panel co-sponsored by Business Law Society: September 27, 2017, at noon in room 303 (falafel will be provided): this is a career interest oriented panel put together with the help of Professor Laura Cunningham. The panelists are:

- Aaron Gaynor - Roberts & Holland
- Lucy Martucci - Kirkland & Ellis
- Yonatan Tamman - Mayer Brown
- Ryan Zucchetto - Dentons

These Cardozo Alumni will come to interact with students about their practice, career planning, and provide students with career guidance.

Please join us for a Heyman Lunch Speaker Series event:

From Cradle to Grave: An Acquisition Financing

Speaker: Ellen Snare, Partner, King & Spalding

Date: Wednesday, September 27, 2017

Time: 12:00 pm

Location: TBD

Lunch will be provided.

Please join us for the first Heyman Lunch Speaker Series event of the semester! Ellen Snare, a Partner in the Finance group at King & Spalding, will lead a discussion on acquisition financing - from the happy beginnings of the deal, to the sometimes-unhappy ending.

Ellen Snare represents financial institutions, lenders, private equity sponsors, and public and private issuers and borrowers in leveraged finance and other secured and unsecured lending transactions. In her practice, Ellen focuses particularly on private equity financings (including leveraged buyouts, dividend recapitalizations and tack-on acquisitions), as well as mezzanine financings, second lien financings and other junior capital financings, asset-based lending, high-yield bond finance, in-court and out-of-court restructurings, and workouts.

This event is open only to the Cardozo community. If you register and can no longer attend, please let us know so that we have an accurate headcount for catering purposes.
