Today at Cardozo – Monday, January 29, 2018

The events room booking system that is used to reserve classrooms and event spaces has been upgraded to a new scheduling tool called 25Live. 25Live is a web-based event publishing and scheduling application that will streamline the process of event scheduling by providing recommended locations based on factors such as attendee count and real time availability. We strongly encourage attendance at the upcoming 25Live trainings as they will help with a smooth transition into the new room booking system.

The next two trainings will be held on Monday, January 29th and Wednesday, February 7th from 12:15pm-1:15pm in Room 303.

Join Chabad Serving Cardozo at 12pm in the lobby for cookies and conversation, a torah study for women.

Upcoming Events and Announcements

Dear Colleagues and Future Litigators,
Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law has been selected to host the New York regional Mock Trial competition for the New York State Bar Association, Trial Lawyers Section. We are excited to have two teams competing in this prestigious competition.

As hosts, we are responsible for providing witnesses and bailiffs for the competition which is taking place from February 9th - February 11th at the Courthouse located at 100 Centre Street. This is a wonderful opportunity to get exposure for our amazing school and also an amazing opportunity for students to gain valuable experience in trial advocacy.

Please consider supporting our teams and school by volunteering to participate as a witness or bailiff. Both, witnesses, and bailiffs, are needed for the following times:

- Friday, February 9th, evening rounds begin at 5:00 p.m.
- Saturday morning, February 10th, rounds begin at 9:00 a.m.
- Saturday afternoon, February 10th, rounds begin 1:00 p.m.
- Sunday, February 11th, morning rounds begin at 9:00 a.m.
- Sunday, February 11th, afternoon rounds begin at 1:00 p.m.

All the best,
Cardozo's Mock Trial Team

The Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law is hosting the Americas Round of The Price Media Law Moot Court Competition from Thursday, February 1 through Sunday, February 4.

We have teams coming from all over the United States, as well as from Canada (York University), Jamaica (University of the West Indies at Mona), and Brazil (Universidade de São Paulo, and Universidade Federal do Paraná).

Please join us for:

I. A panel discussion on Thursday evening from 6-8pm in the Moot Court Room, titled "The New Counter-terrorism and Countering Violent Extremism: Speech Regulation, Private Companies and Free Expression", hosted by Professor Monroe Price

II. Please also join us for the final round taking place from 1-3PM in the Moot Court Room, with awards and a reception after.

Information about the final round judges:

Ellen Goodman

Ellen Goodman is co-director and co-founder of the Rutgers Institute for Information Policy & Law, joining the faculty of Rutgers Law School at Camden in 2003. She is an expert in information policy law, with research interests including freedom of expression, communications architectures, media and spectrum policy, disclosure as a policy tool, advertising law, and the informational aspects of sustainability policy. Prior to joining the Rutgers faculty, she was a partner with Covington & Burling LLP, a Washington, D.C. firm. She has received grants from the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation and the Ford Foundation for her media law research and served as Distinguished Visiting Scholar at the FCC. She has been a visiting professor at the University of Pennsylvania's Annenberg School of Communications, Wharton School of Business, and Law School. She is an alumna of Harvard College and Harvard Law School and clerked for Judge Norma L. Shapiro at the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

Judge Rowan D. Wilson

The Honorable Rowan D. Wilson is an associate judge on the New York Court of Appeals, appointed by Governor Andrew Cuomo in 2017. Prior to becoming a judge on New York's highest appellate court, he joined the firm of Cravath, Swain & Moore in 1986, and served as partner from 1991 until his confirmation in February 2017. After graduating from Harvard College and Harvard Law School in 1981 and 1984, respectively, he clerked for the Honorable James R. Browning, Chief Judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, from 1984 to 1986. While at Cravath, he was one of the country's leading litigators and spent time overseeing the firm's pro bono work.

Dante Negro

Dante Negro is the Director of the Office of International Law within the Department of International Legal Affairs of the Organization of American States, and has served in this capacity since 2006, joining the Office in 1995. His work involves advising the OAS and inter-American specialized conferences on legal matters pertaining to international law, coordinating and preparing research, and providing legal education to members. Notably, he is the institutional focal point for the Ibero-American Data Protection Network and the Transparency and Access to Information Network, with this work stemming from emerging importance of data privacy intersecting with his expertise in international human rights law. Before joining the Office, Mr. Negro earned his bachelor's and master's degrees in law at the Pontifical Catholic University of Peru, and earned his Master of Laws from the University of Notre Dame, writing his thesis on internal terrorism and international human rights.

Ona Flores

Ona Flores serves as a Senior Attorney with the Office of the Special Rapporteur for Freedom of Expression within the Inter-American Commission of Human Rights (IACHR). She provides high-level legal and policy advice related to freedom of expression and access to information to the IACHR and governments within the Americas, as well as conducting and supervising research in these areas. Prior to joining the IACHR, she served as the Women's Rights Program Coordinator within the Human Rights Center at the Universidad de Chile Law School, and was a Senior Attorney with the Inter-American Court of Human Rights. She earned her first law degree from the Universidad Catolica Andres Bello, and her Master of Laws at Columbia Law School, where she was a Fulbright Fellow and a Harlan Fiske Stone Scholar.

Missed the SRP New Advocate trainings last semester but still want to get some advocacy experience? Come to the spring 2018 New Advocate training here at Cardozo Law on January 31st at 6:30pm in the Moot Court Room.

You must attend at least one New Advocate Training in order to be eligible to take on a case.

SRP advocates represent students at their suspension hearings. You will develop meaningful legal skills: interviewing clients, conducting your own direct and cross examinations, and delivering closing arguments.

Our advocacy routinely helps to shorten the length of suspensions or eliminate them entirely. Last year alone, SRP advocates were able to reduce suspension time by ~2661 days, and last semester, we represented over 80 students at their suspension hearings.

There will be PIZZA!!!
