Holocaust and Human Rights invites you to

Supporting Mental and Public Health Prevention Work in Pre-Atrocity, Atrocity, and Post-Atrocity Settings

The second event in the Digital Dialogue Series, exploring the various chapters in the book through panels with the contributing authors.

Wednesday, November 11

12 p.m.

Join us for a timely discussion at the intersection of public health, mental health, and mass atrocity prevention in the U.S. and globally. Purchase the volume edited by Professor Jocelyn Getgen Kestenbaum: "Public Health, Mental Health, and Mass Atrocity Prevention."

Panelists:

- Dr. James Densley, Professor and Department Chair of Criminal Justice at Metropolitan State University.
- Dr. Margareta (Magda) Matache, scholar from Romania, director of the FXB Center for Health and Human Rights' Roma Program, and a Harvard instructor.
- Arlan Fuller, Chief Operating Officer, Conflict Dynamics International.
- Jocelyn Getgen Kestenbaum, Associate Professor of Clinical Law at Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law; Director of the Benjamin B. Ferencz Human Rights and Atrocity Prevention Clinic and the Cardozo Law Institute in Holocaust and Human Rights (CLIHHR).
