The Howard M. Squadron Program in Law, Media, and Society presents:

Meet the Squadrons!

Interested in intellectual property, media, or entertainment law? On Monday, October 16 at 12:00 PM in room 423, come learn about the Squadron Fellowship program and how you can apply for the fellowship to fund your summer placement! Hear from recent Squadrons about the work they have done and how the Squadron Fellowship has helped them in their law school careers.

The Howard M. Squadron Program in Law, Media, and Society will award fellowships to students who participate in non-credit bearing international or domestic internships in media, publishing, communications, intellectual property, entertainment, Internet and similar legal fields. For example, past Squadron Fellowship recipients have worked at the Federal Communications Commission, SONY, VIACOM and CBS News, just to name a few.

With the assistance of the Squadron Program, fellowship recipients will be responsible for planning at least one presentation or event at Cardozo during the 2018-2019 academic year. We encourage anyone considering an internship in intellectual property, media, publishing, communications, Internet or entertainment law next summer to apply.

Pizza will be served.

Upcoming Events and Announcements

The Israeli Supreme Court Project at Cardozo and the Yeshiva University Center for Jewish Law and Contemporary Civilization at Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law present the Eighth Annual Ivan Meyer Lecture in Jewish Law

“Rules and Reasons in the Jurisprudence of The Israeli Supreme Court and in Modern Jewish Law”

Professor Yair Lorberbaum

Sunday, October 22, 6:00pm

Jacob Burns Moot Court Room, Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law

55 Fifth Avenue (at 12th Street)

The jurisprudence of the Israeli Supreme Court (ISC) has undergone dramatic changes during the course of its existence. From its inception in 1948 until the late 1970s, the ISC subscribed to what scholars describe as formalistic, rule-oriented modes of legal reasoning. Yet from the early 1980s, under the aegis of Justice Aharon Barak, the ISC shifted to legal reasoning based not on applying rules but rather on weighing reasons and justifications. One scholar has referred to this shift as "the decline of formalism and the rise of values in Israeli law." Jewish law, on the other hand, has undergone the opposite process in the modern era, with its legal (halakhic) reasoning grounded in formalism, conceptualism, and ruleism. Professor Yair Lorberbaum, a scholar of Jewish law and thought, will describe these two opposite processes, depict their background, and analyze their causes.

This event is free and open to the public, but an RSVP is requested.

Uncharted Territory: Building a Practice in a New Area of Law

Speakers: David Feuerstein, '01, Partner, Feuerstein Kulick LLP, and Mitch Kulick, Partner, Feuerstein Kulick LLP

Date: Wednesday, October 18, 2017

Time: 12:00 pm

Location: Rm 303

Lunch will be provided.

Please join us for a Heyman Lunch Speaker Series event featuring Cardozo alum David Feuerstein and Mitch Kulick, both Partners and Co-Founders of Feuerstein Kulick LLP! After being a partner at Herrick, Feinstein LLP, David left to start his own firm with Partner Mitch Kulick about 18 months ago. In its short lifespan, Feuerstein Kulick has already become a premier boutique firm focusing on complex commercial litigation and cannabis law. David and Mitch will discuss the business of starting your own firm and how to navigate the unique issues lawyers face when presented with new industries and areas of law.

This event is open only to the Cardozo community. If you register and can no longer attend, please let us know so that we have an accurate headcount for catering purposes.

Please join Cardozo Law Review for our annual Bauer Lecture, to be delivered by Justice Rosalie Abella of the Supreme Court of Canada. The Cardozo Law Institute in Holocaust and Human Rights invites you to:
2017 Raphael Lemkin Book Award Ceremony

This year's selected winner is Benjamin Madley's 'An American Genocide: The United States and the California Indian Catastrophe' (Yale, 2016).

The ceremony will include a public talk with Professor Madley, as well as a discussion led by Professor Karl Jacoby of Columbia University's Department of History and Center for the Study of Ethnicity and Race.

The biennial award is for the best nonfiction work that focuses on explanations of genocide, crimes against humanity, state mass killings and gross violations of human rights, and strategies to prevent such crimes and violations. The award committee chose 'An American Genocide' for its meticulous and exhaustive research, theoretical sophistication, and focus on bringing to light an important case of genocide that has received little attention in research and broader public discourse.

Date: October 17th

Time: 5:00PM
