Dean Val Myteberi Talks to LL.M. Guide about Artificial Intelligence and the Legal Industry

Dean Val Myteberi was quoted in LL.M Guide in an article about the rise in artificial intelligence in the legal industry. She said, "Because AI allows for less time to be spent on administrative tasks, lawyers have more time to spend focusing on their clients, better understanding the business risks they face, and offering more value through building relationships and connecting on a human level."

"However, there must always be a balance between focusing on the hard skills necessary to succeed in law and the soft skills in order for our work to be of the highest quality possible...The work necessary to develop the most important skills happens when students take advantage of every opportunity to learn, while being challenged to venture outside of their comfort zones."
