Cardozo programs Earn High Grades from preLaw Magazine

Cardozo's IP program received an A+ in the spring issue of preLaw Magazine; an A+ in Trial Advocacy and Litigation and Alternative Dispute Resolution; and an A- in Practical Training. "Cardozo Law, like the city, doesn't sleep. It's constantly looking for ways to enhance its IP program," said preLaw.

Professor Jessica Roth Comments on Julian Assange's Arrest on CNN Newsroom

Professor Jessica Roth was a guest on CNN Newsroom, discussing Julian Assange's arrest and the future of the case. "Once he's here, things start all over again in term of his relationship with U.S. prosecutors...he's indicated so far he's not inclined to be a cooperative witness," she said.

Randall Rothschild '97 Talks About a Career in Real Estate, Law and Business

Dean Melanie Leslie interviewed Randall Rothschild '97 on April 9 as part of the Pathways speaker series. Rothschild discussed how Cardozo prepared him for a career in the real estate industry. His roles have evolved from law to business and finance, and he offered tips for how to maintain a good work-life balance.

Professor Gabor Rona's Letter to the Editor in The New York Times Points out Issues in Recent Editorial

Professor Gabor Rona's letter to the editor in The New York Times pointed out problems with overly expansive notions of "war" and "combatant" in a March 31 editorial titled "The Secret Death Toll of America's Drones." He wrote, "Cloaked in the legal house of cards known as the 'global war on terror,' every post-9/11 administration has understated that war's civilian casualties, but not only in the ways highlighted in your editorial. In addition to failing to account for people we did not mean to kill, but did, there are a substantial number of people whose deliberate targeting our government justifies through overly expansive notions of "war" and "combatant."

Professor Kyron Huigens Focuses on the Mueller Report in The Hill Op-Ed

Professor Kyron Huigens' op-ed in The Hill discusses Mueller, Barr and the idea of corrupt intent: "Where criminal law is concerned, the rule of law demands that people know what is and is not a crime; those police and prosecutors exercise their discretion within narrow bounds; and that courts come to reliable, understandable conclusions. The standard of 'corrupt intent' is antithetical to all of this. With Barr's summary of the Mueller report, 'corrupt intent' has left us all wondering what conduct is prohibited, who might be prosecuted and punished, and why," he wrote.
