Title of Event: Public & Private Sectors' Role in Cybersecurity

Date and Time: April 19th @6:30pm EST

Eventbrite link below

Event Description: As cyberattacks become a routine part of our modern digital world, companies and individuals continue to face concerns over legal consequences resulting from potential breaches, whether from regulators or consumers whose data has been compromised. This event will host a panel of attorneys and cybercrime professionals who will discuss how the digitized environment is shaping legal response mechanisms. The panelists will touch on the basics of discovering a “bug” in your system, remediating a data breach and the regulatory landscape of consumer data.

Panelists:

Kathleen A. McGee, Partner, Lowenstein Sandler

Kimberly Kiefer Peretti, Partner, Alston & Bird

Joel DeCapua, Supervisory Special Agent, FBI’s Global Operations and Targeting Unit

Sponsoring SBA group: Women In Tech Law

Co-sponsors: Cardozo's Data Law Initiative (CDLI)

Please join us for a guest lecture with the authors and co-founders of "Sneaker Law," Kenneth Anand and Jared Goldstein, who will provide an overview of the laws, litigation, and other disputes that have impacted the sneaker industry, as well as a practical primer of contractual terms that are heavily negotiated in most sneaker transactions.

Kenneth Anand is also the co-founder of 3 8 0 Group, a fashion licensing company specializing in the manufacturing and distribution of premium apparel, footwear, and fashion accessories. From 2017-2019 Kenneth was General Counsel and Head of Business Development at YEEZY Apparel, Kanye West's sneaker and fashion house. Prior to YEEZY, Kenneth practiced law for over 15 years, advising companies, executives and entrepreneurs in employment, intellectual property and entertainment matters with an emphasis in the fashion industry. Through his work with 3 8 0 & YEEZY, Kenneth has established himself as a leading business and legal expert and regularly lectures on topics involving sneakers and fashion.

Jared is also Legal Counsel at LiveIntent, an ad-tech and marketing company. Jared assists LiveIntent with all in-house legal matters, including advertising, technology, digital media, privacy and data protection, IP, compliance, and corporate issues. Kenneth Anand is also the co-founder of 3 8 0 Group, a fashion licensing company specializing in the manufacturing and distribution of premium apparel, footwear, and fashion accessories. From 2017- 2019 Kenneth was General Counsel and Head of Business Development at YEEZY Apparel, Kanye West's sneaker and fashion house.

This online event is approved for 1.0 transitional/non-transitional New York State CLE credits in the category “Areas of Professional Practice.” You must attend the “live” program in order to receive CLE credits. We cannot award CLE credits for watching a recorded version of this program.

Event link and CLE materials will be provided the day of the event.

Mass Incarceration in New York: Creating Meaningful Reform
Wednesday, April 21. 12:00PM EST-1:30PM EST

Register Below

The panel will focus on the impact of mass incarceration on New Yorkers serving the longest sentences and discuss the need for meaningful reform in the areas of parole, compassionate release, and clemency, as well as how carceral policies have increased the vulnerabilities of these individuals during the Covid-19 pandemic.

Kathryn Miller, Clinical Assistant Professor of Law and Assistant Director, Criminal Defense Clinic at the Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law, will be moderating the discussion.

Panelists:

Stephen Chu is the Deputy Attorney-in-Charge at the Office of the Appellate Defender (OAD). The OAD is a holistic, public defense office that represents clients after they have been convicted and sentenced to time in New York state prisons. Stephen is a 2008 graduate from NYU Law School. He has previously clerked for Justice Alan Page on the Minnesota Supreme Court and spent seven years with the Equal Justice Initiative.

Anthony Dixon is the Director of Community Engagement at the Parole Preparation Project. For the past three decades, he has helped secure the release of people serving long sentences in New York State. Anthony has prepared people for their transitions home from prison and supported them in the months and years after their release. His critical advocacy work includes pushing key policy reforms and building strategic partnerships.

Insha Rahman leads advocacy and partnerships at the Vera Institute of Justice, a national research and policy organization that fights mass incarceration and builds just, accountable institutions and safe, thriving communities. Insha was a public defender in the Bronx before coming to Vera.

The Piracy Paradox in an Era of Disruption Symposium

Thursday, April 22, 2021

6pm-8pm EST
CLE Credit Pending

Zoom

The Piracy Paradox by Kal Raustiala and Christopher Jon Sprigman, has upended the traditional justification of intellectual property as a necessary incentive to innovation by convincingly demonstrating that innovation, paradoxically, thrives in the fashion industry even without strong protection. Scholarship about “IP’s negative space” has proliferated in the fifteen years since the article’s publication.

In this symposium, Professors Raustiala and Sprigman are joined by leading scholars in presenting their forthcoming articles reflecting on the piracy paradox after a period of change and a tumultuous year where industry, production, and consumer behavior have been severely disrupted.

Kal Raustiala, Promise Institute Chair in Comparative and International Law, UCLA School of Law
Christopher Jon Sprigman, Murray and Kathleen Bring Professor of Law, New York University School of Law

Felicia Caponigri, Term Teaching Professor of Law, Notre Dame Law School

Aman K. Gebru, Assistant Professor of Law, Duquesne University School of Law

Amy L. Landers, Professor of Law, Drexel University Thomas R. Kline School of Law

Andres Sawicki, Professor of Law, University of Miami School of Law

Jessica Silbey, Professor of Law, Boston University School of Law

Francesca M. Witzburg, Partner, Loza & Loza LLP

Moderated by: Christopher J. Buccafusco, Professor of Law & Director of the Intellectual Property & Information Law Program, Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law.

Stop Asian Hate: Time for Facts, Not Fear

Monday, April 26, 2021
12:30 - 1:30 p.m.

Since Donald Trump called COVID-19 the "China virus" and the "Kung Fu" virus, hate crimes against Asian Americans have increased by 150%. More than 3,800 cases have been reported since March of 2020. Asian Americans have historically been silenced or held as "model immigrants". The discrimination they face has often been erased from American history. This must stop. The discussion will focus on the historical facts of Asian American discrimination in light of the current wave of anti-Asian American hate crimes.
