invites you to:

The New UNCITRAL Singapore Convention: Compliance with Cross-Border Mediated Settlement Agreements

The Singapore Convention does for mediation what the New York Convention did for arbitration - makes outcomes enforceable in countries that sign the Convention.

Learn about UNCITRAL, the process of creating the Singapore Convention, and its significance. Explore the need for the Convention and the history of litigation around mediated settlement agreements.

What issues did the drafters face? Does the Convention represent and improvement over the status quo? How will the Convention interact with other instruments and laws? Most of the speakers at the symposium participated in the drafting of the Convention.
