This year’s Gloria and Stanley Plesent Lecture will be given by Professor Dara E. Purvis, a scholar of family law, feminist legal theory, sexuality, gender identity and the law who teaches at Penn State Law. Her work examines gendered impacts of the law and proposes neutralizing reforms, most recently in the context of how the law defines parenthood. Professor Purvis will be discussing the recent spate of state bills and laws related to transgender children.

In addition, we will be honoring the memories of Stanley Plesent and Gloria Plesent, both of whom have passed away since the last lecture was held at Cardozo, with remarks by Jaime Weiss of Teitler & Teitler and Allen Drexel of Gallet Dreyer & Berkey.
