Cardozo Law Revue Activity Meeting: Join the Cast!

We are currently cooking up comic scenes and songs for the community's entertainment.
Now is the perfect time to join.

If you are interested (a) to show off a talent, (b) to join the cast for the Spring Semester, (c) to contribute writing, (d) to volunteer as crew, or (e) to just otherwise avert scholastic meltdown, join us for skit staging, singing, and improv.

Be a part of Cardozo's longstanding tradition, and most importantly, have fun!

Today at Room 423
7 pm

Food will be served.

The Interactive Entertainment Law Society: Video Game Preservation--Archiving and Fair Use

Wednesday, March 27, 2019, 12pm-1:30pm, Room 407

The IELS welcomes Andrew Borman, the Digital Games Curator at The Strong, National Museum of Play, and Lyndsey Moulds, Software Curator at Rhizome, to speak about their experience with digital media preservation and fair use exceptions to the Digital Millennium Copyright Act! Learn about how video games and other digital media may be preserved for future generations, why such preservation is important, and discuss what practical and legal challenges exist in the field. Video game preservation was in the news last year when the Library of Congress passed a fair use DMCA exception which made it easier for archivists to preserve and share older video games. Stop by to learn more about digital archiving practices!

Info Sessions for the Moot Court and ADR Honor Societies

Dear 1Ls,

Please join us on March 25th and 27th at 12 pm, in room 424 to learn about the Moot Court Honor Society and the ADR Competition Honor Society. These are two exceptional journals that provide hands-on experiences in the areas of appellate advocacy and negotiation. During these info sessions, we'll be talking about the application process, tips and tricks for tryouts, and answering any questions you may have. You won't want to miss it!

About the Moot Court Honor Society:

The Moot Court Honor Society enables students to hone the legal skills essential to litigation and appellate advocacy. Our teams argue a variety of legal issues at moot court competitions throughout the country and internationally. This is an exceptional opportunity for students to engage in challenging, competitive, and rewarding work.

About the ADR Competition Honor Society:

The ADR Competition Honor Society offers students the opportunity to learn and compete in the disciplines of negotiation, mediation, and arbitration domestically and internationally while being coached by third-year students and faculty advisors from the Kukin Program for Conflict Resolution.

Let's Talk about the Boteros: Law, Memory, and the Torture Memos at Berkeley Law
with Professor Laurel E. Fletcher
Wednesday, April 3, 12-1:15PM
Room 525
Lunch will be served

Please join CLIHHR as we welcome Professor Laurel E. Fletcher (Berkeley Law) for a thought-provoking and timely discussion on how institutions of higher learning confront symbols of their ties to slavery, colonialism, racism and other projects antithetical to their values. Professor Fletcher will discuss how Berkeley Law has reckoned with its association with the "Torture Memos" of the Bush Administration through one of their principal authors, Berkeley law professor John Yoo. The school acknowledges this link by exhibiting paintings by Fernando Botero of prisoner abuse by U.S. soldiers at Abu Ghraib. The paintings may soon be removed, raising the question that while schools are taking down symbols of injustice, what are the stakes involved in taking down symbols to confront injustice?

Laurel E. Fletcher is Clinical Professor of Law at UC Berkeley, School of Law where she directs the International Human Rights Law Clinic. Fletcher has advocated on behalf of victims before international courts and tribunals, and has issued numerous human rights reports on topics ranging from sexual violence in armed conflict to human rights violations of tipped workers in the US restaurant industry. She also has conducted several empirical human rights studies, including of the impact of detention on former detainees who were held in U.S. custody in Afghanistan and Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. She served as co-Editor-in-Chief of the International Journal of Transitional Justice (2011-2015). Fletcher was selected as a Herbert Smith Freehills Visitor to the Faculty of Law in the University of Cambridge for 2019.

Professor Linda Mulcahy on The Democratic Courthouse
A talk organized by Former Cardozo Law Dean Monroe Price and Sponsored by the Floersheimer Center for Constitutional Democracy

March 28, 2019
4:30 - 6:00p.m.
Room 1147

In contrast to visions of judicial space as neutral, Oxford scholar Linda Mulcahy argues that the environment of the trial can be seen as a physical expression of our relationship with ideals of justice.

Join Professor Mulcahy, the Honorable Dennis G. Jacobs of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, and former Cardozo Law Dean, Professor Monroe Price, for a discussion about legal architecture and "The Democratic Courthouse." Professor Price will act as moderator.

Linda Mulcahy is the Professor of Socio-legal Studies in the Faculty of Law at the University of Oxford, and the Director of the Centre for Socio-Legal Studies. She has degrees in law, legal theory, sociology and art history and her work has a strong interdisciplinary flavor.

Light refreshments provided, no RSVP necessary.

Philosophy and Law Society General Body Meeting
3/28/19, 12:30pm-1:30pm
Room 5SEM

Philosophy and Law Society

Come join the Philosophy and Law Society at 12:30pm in 5SEM for some pizza and phi-LAW-sophical discussion!

Here is the prompt for the meeting:

Suppose that the legislature, embracing a Law and Economics views of the criminal justice system, decides to run a pilot program whereby someone can "sell" their sentence on the free market, giving someone money to take their place in prison. Someone found guilty of theft sentenced to a year in prison might, for example, pay someone else $100,000 to take over their sentence. In response to outcry at guilty people getting away with no non-monetary penalty, and people pointing out that this does nothing to accomplish the incapacitation and rehabilitation justifications for prison, the legislature is also considering forcing those who take advantage of such a system to remain under a form of house arrest and commit to mandatory re-education of various sorts.

Accepting the premise of Law and Economics as valid, is this system just?

30th Annual Uri and Caroline Bauer Memorial Lecture: Professor Zephyr Teachout

Cardozo Law Review is pleased to welcome Professor Zephyr Teachout to discuss her upcoming book, Break 'em Up. This lecture will explore the argument for a national anti-monopoly movement, and will include a discussion of how such a movement would affect the future of law.

Professor Teachout is an expert in the field of corruption law. Her book on the political and legal history of corruption in the United States, Corruption in America: From Benjamin Franklin's Snuff Box to Citizens United, is widely recognized as a groundbreaking analysis on the subject. Former Supreme Court Justice John Paul Stevens cited her anti-corruption research in his dissent in Citizens United.

The Cardozo FAME Center, Cardozo Data Law Initiative, Cardozo Data Law Society and Fashion Law Society present:

Data Protection in the Global Marketplace

Data protection and cybersecurity concerns are ever-present challenges to companies and firms globally. Heightening this is the continual evolution of data protection as a field of law as government and regulators race to keep abreast of technology and the ubiquitous use of personal data in commerce, including fashion retail. This panel will focus on these developments and address how companies can comply when doing business globally and how to work with regulators across various, often competing, legal regimes.

Speakers:

Lisa Sotto, Partner, Hunton Andrews Kurth
Ryan Vinelli, Vice President, Privacy & Technology Counsel, Western Union
Professor Felix Wu, Faculty Director, Cardozo Data Law Initiative
