

Yeshiva University, Cardozo School of Law

LARC @ Cardozo Law

Cardozo Law News Brief 2017

Cardozo Law News Brief

12-8-2017

Cardozo Law News Brief: December 8, 2017

Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law

Follow this and additional works at: <https://larc.cardozo.yu.edu/news-brief-2017>

Part of the Law Commons

Recommended Citation

Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law, "Cardozo Law News Brief: December 8, 2017" (2017). Cardozo Law News Brief 2017. 23.

<https://larc.cardozo.yu.edu/news-brief-2017/23>

This News Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Cardozo Law News Brief at LARC @ Cardozo Law. It has been accepted for inclusion in Cardozo Law News Brief 2017 by an authorized administrator of LARC @ Cardozo Law. For more information, please contact christine.george@yu.edu, ingrid.mattson@yu.edu.

Campus News

Learning From the Masters Series Begins as Cardozo Hosts Attorney General Eric Schneiderman

Attorney General Eric Schneiderman urged Cardozo students to be part of the next great transformational movement in American politics at a lecture on December 4.

Cardozo to Accept GRE Scores For 2018 School Year

Cardozo School of Law announced on December 7 that it will begin accepting Graduate Record Exam (GRE) test scores in addition to LSAT scores for applicants to its 2018 May and fall entering classes.

Luxury Brand Attorneys Discuss Challenges During Panel Discussion

Cardozo's FAME Center hosted "The Business of Luxury" panel December 5, which included a panel of attorneys for major brand holding groups speaking about the legal issues facing their companies.

Faculty

Can the President Be Charged With Obstruction of Justice? Professor Herz Comments in Esquire

The Esquire article asks whether there is a compelling case that President Trump obstructed justice when he fired FBI Director James Comey. Professor Michael Herz says that while the president has broad authority to fire an FBI director, some grounds for dismissal would be impermissible and amount to obstruction.

What Should Congress Do About the Johnson Amendment? Professor Zelinsky Weighs in on OUPblog

The Johnson Amendment bans tax-exempt institutions from participating in political campaigns. Professor Edward Zelinsky weighs in on what the conference committee charged with reconciling the House and Senate tax bills should do with the amendment.