

CARDOZO

Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law

LARC @ Cardozo Law

Cardozo Law News Brief 2019

Cardozo Law News Brief

7-25-2019

Cardozo Law News Brief: July 25, 2019

Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law

Follow this and additional works at: <https://larc.cardozo.yu.edu/news-briefs-2019>

Part of the Law Commons

Recommended Citation

Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law, "Cardozo Law News Brief: July 25, 2019" (2019). Cardozo Law News Brief 2019. 23.

<https://larc.cardozo.yu.edu/news-briefs-2019/23>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Cardozo Law News Brief at LARC @ Cardozo Law. It has been accepted for inclusion in Cardozo Law News Brief 2019 by an authorized administrator of LARC @ Cardozo Law. For more information, please contact larc@yu.edu.

CAMPUS NEWS

Professors Kate Shaw and Deborah Pearlstein Reflect on Experiences as Justice Stevens' Clerks on law.com; Professor Pearlstein Writes Op-ed in Talking Points Memo; Professor Shaw Remembers Stevens on We the People Podcast

Professors Deborah Pearlstein and Kate Shaw reflect on their clerkships with the late Justice John Paul Stevens.

Professor Kate Shaw Analyzes Mueller's Testimony on ABC News

Professor Kate Shaw told ABC News, "the same indirection that you see in the report-it's not so clear-you saw kind of reflected back in the testimony."

Professor Michelle Adams Discusses Milliken vs. Bradley on NPR and Integrated Schools

On the 45th anniversary of Milliken vs. Bradley, Professor Michelle Adams spoke to NPR and was a guest on The Integrated Schools podcast. She told NPR, "The story was the story of American apartheid."

"What was interesting about what they did in Detroit," she said on The Integrated Schools podcast, "was that they had two pieces of litigation: the classic school case and they also had a housing case. They tried to show that it wasn't just that the Detroit public school officials took actions intentionally to segregate the schools, but they incorporated the background residential segregation into their actions. They put on a case going back to almost the turn of the century, that laid out how did Detroit come to look the way it did."

Professor Lindsay Nash Authors Op-ed in Daily News

Professor and Immigration Justice Clinic Co-Director Lindsay Nash's article titled "ICE's Cruelty, Explained: What's wrong with the Raids" was published in the New York Daily News. "...despite laws enacted by Congress granting them the right to make out their case before a judge, they face swift deportation to the very persecution from which they fled," Nash writes.

Professor Michael Herz Comments on Census Question in The Hill

Professor Michael Herz told The Hill regarding the census debate, "They need meaningful reassurances from the government that, in fact, the information won't be used for enforcement, deportation, other sorts of purposes."

Professor Kyron Huigens Appears on Al Jazeera

Professor Kyron Huigens told Al Jazeera that President Trump "should be concerned" now that Congress is issuing subpoenas for information about the administration's conduct. "They've engaged in many issues in a pattern of non-compliance with subpoenas and Congressional requests," he said.

Professor Alex Reinert Named the Max Freund Professor of Litigation & Advocacy

Professor Alexander Reinert has been named the Max Freund Professor of Litigation & Advocacy; the chair formerly held by founding faculty member Arthur Jacobson. Dean Melanie Leslie said, "A member of our faculty since 2007, Alex is an important scholar, a passionate, dedicated and extraordinarily effective teacher and a great institutional citizen. His advocacy work includes major litigation in the area of prisoners' rights, and he has had a significant impact on solitary confinement policy."

Professor Jessica Roth Talks about Epstein Case on CNN and PBS

Professor Jessica Roth appeared as a guest on PBS NewsHour and CNN to discuss the Jeffrey Epstein case. "So, in a sense, he was shifting blame to the state prosecutors who initiated the case, saying they weren't tough enough in the first instance," she said on PBS.

"There are still things that are unexplained, including for example why unindicted co-conspirators were immunized..." she said on CNN.

Professor Sam Weinstein Analyzes DOJ Review of Big Tech in The New York Times

The DOJ opened an antitrust review of big tech companies, to investigate concerns over market power and possible harm to consumers. Professor Sam Weinstein, a former antitrust lawyer at the DOJ told The New York Times, "There is a lot of criticism of the agencies that they are not doing enough about big tech, and this is a way to respond to that criticism."