

CARDOZO
Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law

LARC @ Cardozo Law

---

Cardozo Law News Brief 2021

Cardozo Law News Brief

---

6-25-2021

Cardozo Law News Brief: June 25, 2021

Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law

Follow this and additional works at: <https://larc.cardozo.yu.edu/news-briefs-2021>

Part of the Law Commons

---

Recommended Citation

Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law, "Cardozo Law News Brief: June 25, 2021" (2021). Cardozo Law News Brief 2021. 24.

<https://larc.cardozo.yu.edu/news-briefs-2021/24>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Cardozo Law News Brief at LARC @ Cardozo Law. It has been accepted for inclusion in Cardozo Law News Brief 2021 by an authorized administrator of LARC @ Cardozo Law. For more information, please contact larc@yu.edu.

CARDOZO LAW

Cardozo Law News Brief

Spotlight on News from the Cardozo Community

Cardozo News

Professor Rebekah Diller Discusses the Britney Spears Conservatorship Case in the The New York Times

“It’s certainly troubling that this has gone on for so long if she has wanted to end it,” said Professor Diller. “It’s hard to know exactly what’s gone on behind closed doors, but in general one would hope she has been told that (she can choose her own attorney) throughout the years, because it’s a critical right she was entitled to.”

Read More

Professor Leslie Salzman Talks with NPR about the Britney Spears Conservatorship Case

"Usually it's not an individual who is young, who is working, who is very successful in their field — because that suggests a level of capability that wouldn't meet the standard for legal incapacity," Professor Salzman says.

Read More

---

Professor Kate Shaw Comments on SCOTUS in The Boston Globe

---

“McConnell’s recent suggestion that he’ll refuse to fill the seat if the GOP controls the Senate means that delay increases the chances of another hyper-polarized confirmation process, which is the last thing Breyer wants,” Professor Shaw said.

Read More

---

Professor Ekow Yankah Comments on Supreme Court NCAA Decision on NPR

---

"The educational package is an important ruling because of its language. It probably doesn't change things on the ground so much since the wealthiest universities already have much more attractive packages," Professor Yankah tells NPR affiliate WBUR in Boston.

Professor Yankah also discusses hate speech in Gothamist. "Hate speech can serve as evidence of the racial animus with which you committed a crime."

Listen on NPR

---

Professor Kathryn Miller Speaks to Law.com About the Manhattan District Attorney Primary

---

“They are thoughtful lists [of charges], in thinking about ways to reduce the impact that surveillance and unnecessary incarceration have on black and brown communities,” Professor Miller said.

Read More

Faculty Scholarship & News

- Professor Rebekah Diller spoke about supported decision-making during the Georgia Division of Aging Services Virtual Healthy Communities Summit June 17.
- Professor Jocelyn Getgen Kestenbaum was a guest editor for Heath and Human Rights Journal, for a special issue looking at the role of human rights, public and mental health in preventing mass atrocities.
- Professor Emeritus Arthur Jacobson was invited by the Cambridge Journal of Law and Religion to review "The Crown and the Courts" (Harvard University Press, 2020), a book by Professor David Flatto.
- Lindsay Nash and Kate Shaw discuss the late Judge Robert Katzmann on the podcast Strict Scrutiny.
- Professor Jessica Roth contributed to a chapter in the National Association of Attorneys General's upcoming manual.
- Professor Kate Shaw was a guest on the National Constitution Center's We the People podcast June 11.
- Professor Sam Weinstein participated in "Market Power in Social Media and Digital Advertising," sponsored by the Global Competition Review on June 16.