

CARDOZO LAW

Cardozo Law News Brief

Spotlight on News from the Cardozo Community

Cardozo News

Cardozo's LL.M. Class of 2022 Begins Its Law School Journey at In-Person Orientation

"At its core, Cardozo is about innovation. We are passionate, ambitious people, and you are joining a school of problem-solvers," Val Myteberi, Associate Dean, Graduate, International & Online Programs, told the new LL.M. class.

Read More

Professor Pamela Foohey Comments on Federal Student Loan Forgiveness in The Hill

"If the moratorium ends at the end of January and people have to pay on those loans for another couple years that could be really economically devastating for a lot of families," Foohey says.

Read More

---

Professor Edward Zelinsky's Legal Challenge to NY State Tax Rules Reported in Bloomberg

---

"New York's continued application of the 'convenience of the employer' doctrine in this kind of case is economically self-destructive," Zelinsky says in the petition to the Tax Appeals Tribunal.

Read More

---

E. Nathaniel Gates Scholars Program Kicks off the 2021-22 Academic Year

---

Cardozo Law's E. Nathaniel Gates Scholars Program is designed to support students from underrepresented backgrounds throughout their law school years, rooted in the belief that community drives success in law school. Jennifer Batista '16, Gow Mosby '18, and Amol Sinha '10 discussed how to advance careers and take advantage of programs such as Bar Association diversity initiatives.

Read More

---

Faculty Scholarship & News

- Professor Stewart Sterk presented a version of his article The Commodification of Public Land Records with Professor Reid Weisbord of Rutgers at an ABA Professors Corner webinar on August 10.
- Professor Pamela Foohey's essay, Bursting the Auto Loan Bubble in the Wake of COVID-19, was published in the Iowa Law Review's symposium issue on the Future of Law and Transportation.