

CARDOZO LAW

Cardozo Law News Brief

Spotlight on News from the Cardozo Community

Cardozo News

Cardozo's Faculty Ranks 33rd in Updated Leiter Report Rankings

Cardozo Law School's faculty ranks 33rd in the nation for scholarly impact, according to the newly released version of the Leiter Scholarly Impact Score. The report looks at mean and median citations to tenured faculty scholarship for 2016-2020 inclusive.

Read More

Professor Kate Shaw Offers Insight on Texas Abortion Ban to ABC News

Shaw says, "At the moment it seems as though access to the constitutionally protected right to an abortion is functionally unavailable in Texas, and even if that's only for a short time, until a judge actually has the opportunity to enjoin the law, the stakes are constitutionally extremely high."

Read More

Professor Ed Zelinsky Named one of the Most-Cited Tax Faculty At The 68 Most-Cited Law Schools

Zelinsky is one of 23 tax professors on TaxProf Blog's list. His articles have appeared in many publications including Harvard Law Review, The Yale Law Journal, Columbia Law Review, Virginia Tax Review, Cardozo Law Review, Tax Notes and State Tax Notes.

Read More

Professor Pamela Foohey Comments in USA Today on Boy Scouts USA Bankruptcy Case

"If they were to go to trial or settle, the damages awarded in each of the underlying cases would reflect these factors. The idea of the matrix is to approximate what survivors would receive outside bankruptcy in their tort cases, and then pay them an amount that reflects the likely relative awards," Foohey says.

Read More

Professor Alex Reinert Quoted in HuffPost on Senator McCarthy's Implication that a Capitol Riot Probe Is Illegal

“I think part of the reason he’s not spelling it out is because the claim may have no validity,” says Reinert.

Read More

Professor Sam Weinstein Talks to The Wall Street Journal About Apple's Fight Over App Store

“It’s a double-edged sword,” says Weinstein. “This might help them in some ways but it might be seen by itself as a concession.”

Read More

Faculty Scholarship & News

- Professor Ngozi Okidegbe will moderate a panel called "Regulating to Address Racial Logics in Algorithmic Systems" at the Electronic Privacy Information Center, on Sept. 21, at 3 p.m.
- Professor Christopher Buccafusco spoke to the Intellectual Property Owners Association on Aug. 18 about how the design patent bar regulations discriminate against female attorneys.
- Professor Ekow Yankah addressed the New York City Racial Justice Commission on Aug. 24, in its work to remake the City Charter along more racially just lines. He discussed expanding our democracy, and how to build a conception of voting as compulsory as an address to our historically questioning and undermining Black Americans as full citizens.
- An op-ed in Bloomberg on NFTs quoted Cardozo Arts & Entertainment Law Journal.

Events

Click on the event title to register.

Twenty Years Later: The Path of the Law Post-9/11

Friday, September 10 at 12 p.m.

Floersheimer Center Annual Supreme Court Term Preview

Thursday, September 30 at 12 p.m.