Cardozo Law Review Symposium: Fault Lines in the Constitution

Panel 1: Friday, September 25 at 12:00 p.m.

Environmental Affirmative Rights in the 21st Century

Panel 2: Tuesday, September 29 at 11:00 a.m.

Sources of Affirmative Rights

Panel 3: Monday, October 12 at 12:00 p.m.

Understanding and Interpreting Affirmative Rights:

The U.S. Constitution and Beyond

The Cardozo Law Review and the Floersheimer Center for Constitutional Democracy are pleased to host a three-panel virtual symposium inspired by Cynthia and Sanford Levinson's timely and compelling book, Fault Lines in the Constitution. Leading scholars and advocates will consider the absence of affirmative rights in the United States Constitution through a critical and comparative lens and assess whether the possibility of creating new affirmative rights is ripe.

Note on New York State CLE Credit

This series of online events is approved for up to 3.0 transitional/non-transitional New York State CLE credits in the category “Areas of Professional Practice” (1 credit for each panel). To receive CLE credits for any panel, you must attend that part of the program “live.” We cannot award CLE credits for watching a recorded version of any part of this program.

If you plan on receiving CLE credit, please register for a free CLE ticket for the events you plan to attend. Otherwise, please register for a general registration ticket for each event you plan to attend, and you will be sent the Zoom information.

Any questions about this event may be directed to Eli Yampel, Cardozo Law Review Symposia Editor.
