PRESENTS

The Piracy Paradox in an era of disruption

THURSDAY, APRIL 22

6PM - 8PM EST

The Piracy Paradox by Kal Raustiala and Christopher Sprigman, has upended the traditional justification of intellectual property as a necessary incentive to innovation by convincingly demonstrating that innovation, paradoxically, thrives in the fashion industry even without strong protection.

This symposium will reflect on the piracy paradox after a period of change and a tumultuous year where industry, production, and consumer behavior have been severely disrupted.
